This Month’s Topics in Pharmacy Education Research

Month: July 2017
Topic: Admissions/Selection
Number of Articles (%): 19 (14.0%)

TITLES

1. More Transparency Is Needed to Curb Excessive Residency Applications

2. In Reply to Deng et al

3. A Proposal to Address the Increasing Number of Residency Applications

4. Selection methods in healthcare professions: where are we now and where next?

5. The construct validity of HPAT-Ireland for the selection of medical students: unresolved issues and future research implications

6. The relationship between extracurricular activities assessed during selection and during medical school and performance

7. CASPer, an online pre-interview screen for personal/professional characteristics: prediction of national licensure scores

8. Hidden item variance in multiple mini-interview scores

9. Do personality traits assessed on medical school admission predict exit performance? A UK-wide longitudinal cohort study
10. Future directions in personality, occupational and medical selection: myths, misunderstandings, measurement, and suggestions

12. A multi-site study on medical school selection, performance, motivation and engagement

13. Participation and selection effects of a voluntary selection process

14. Preadmission schooling context helps to predict examination performance throughout medical school

16. Use and ornament: expanding validity evidence in admissions

18. Widening perspectives: reframing the way we research selection

19. Have admissions committees considered all the evidence?